Gem budget requests up

BY LINDY HIGH
BOISE (UPI) — The 1972 legislature's head-start approach to budget hearings only seems to be bringing the bad news a little bit faster.

As of the opening day of the session, budget requests were what they were in 1971 and hearings Tuesday added almost $2.2 million to the general fund requests.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will not give his executive budget address until Friday, but the acting budget director, D. F. "Skip" Chilberg, already has outlined a few problems.

State agencies seem to want about $170 million. Revenue is estimated at $136 million for fiscal year 1973. Chilberg's continuation level budget is $137 million just to carry on existing programs.

In addition to the fiscal 1973 requests, however, some agencies are seeking supplemental funding to get them through the current fiscal year. As of today, supplemental requests from the general fund totaled $2.4 million. So the good news is that state government is alive and well. The bad news is that there just isn't enough money to stretch. Basically, the problems facing the 1972 legislature — if it looks at only the present revenue sources — are these:

— Revenue must reach $125.3 million by June 30 to meet the current fiscal year's budget. Chilberg thinks it will be close.

Andrus has ordered a one percent holdback in current appropriations in hopes of saving about $600,000. That whole amount could be swallowed up by two lawsuits pending against two state institutions by employees alleging they were not paid overtime compensation.

Granting any of the supplemental appropriation requests will mean, according to Chilberg, that the legislature must find a new source of money or the state must cut back its services to the public. (Continued on p. 3)

PHOTOS relayed from Mariner 9 show a number of unsuspected features of Mars. Here, pits and hollows are shown, which unlike collapse features resulting from volcanic withdrawal, show no interior terraces. They could have resulted from thawing of large accumulations of ground ice. (UPI)

TF seeking 2nd airline

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls city-county Airport commissioners Tuesday voted to seek services of a second major airline in addition to Hughes Airwest. The Commission also approved plans to apply to the Idaho State Department of Aeronautics for a $50,000 grant to match federal funds for airport improvements.

Commission members voted to petition the Civil Aeronautics Board to "permit and encourage" a second air carrier to serve Magic Valley through Twin Falls. In addition, the commissioners agreed to write officials of Western Airlines, American Airlines and United Airlines, asking them to consider serving Twin Falls.

United formerly served Twin Falls and Western now serves Pocatello and Idaho Falls. A proposed merger between Western and American is reported now under study.

The application to the state aeronautics board would provide funds to pay part of the local share of improvements planned in connection with the installation of an instrument landing system starting this spring. The federal government will provide the major funds for the project.

Also planned this summer is the construction of new taxiways and terminal building enlargement were among major programs accomplished last year.

Commission Chairman Bill Powell said the request for a second airline was not made because of the Airwest strike which has cut all flights for nearly a month.

He said growing air traffic and the need for good connections at major terminals was the paramount reason. (Continued on p. 3)

Break even likely

BOISE (UPI) — Tax collection figures released Monday show Idaho may break even at the end of the current fiscal year if spending is curbed and no supplemental funding is granted.

But Acting Budget Director D. F. "Skip" Chilberg said there are "solid needs" requiring about $100,000 requiring supplemental funding and, the possibility, lawsuits filed at two state institutions for alleged overtime pay, require over $600,000 if successful.

Winds bring Valley grief

Blustery winds lashed the Magic Valley Tuesday night and today, causing power failures, closing schools and isolating one town.

Fairfield and Richfield apparently bore the brunt of the storm in this area.

Fairfield was still isolated by snow-blocked highways today, and was without power for more than 12 hours. Service was expected to be restored later today.

Two school buses were reported stranded on rural roads near Richfield this morning, and snow plows had been dispatched to help the buses. It was not immediately known how many children were aboard the buses.

Richfield school officials said one bus was stuck near the Exon ranch and another was apparently stalled somewhere on a route east of Richfield. Another bus operating in the Marley area completed its route.

Drifts and new snow caused Blaine County schools to close. However, law enforcement officers said roads were in better shape there today except for Galena Summit, which was closed. Reports from Galena Lodge showed a foot of new snow and 57 inches on the ground near the summit.

Twin Falls area was without power Tuesday evening for periods of 6 to 15 minutes as a result of an outage shortly before 6 p.m. when high winds were whipping the area.

James Johnston, maintenance superintendent for Idaho Power Co., said the outage apparently involved two main high voltage transmission lines north of the Snake River. However, the specific cause of the power loss had not been located this morning.

Johnston said crews were working in heavy snow between Hailey and Fairfield today in an effort to find the line break which left Fairfield without power during the night. Prairie Power Co., which usually can provide service to that area in event of a power failure, is also having trouble.

Spokesmen for the weather station at Kimberly said winds over the Magic Valley were strong but apparently weren't as high as in eastern and northern Idaho.

In Twin Falls and Kimberly, winds were about 25 miles an hour with gusts to 35. Winds around 23 miles an hour were reported from Fairfield.

Jerome fire burns home

JEROME — The Ross Moseley home four miles south of Jerome on old Highway 79 was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon.

The wood frame structure was too far gone to try to save by the time the fire department arrived.

The strong wind caused the flames to jump the road, igniting a haystack. Firemen extinguished the second fire.

No one was at home at the time of the blaze.

Firemen said the fire apparently was started by a malfunctioning oil furnace.

Photos show Mars not dead planet

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The latest pictures returned from space by Mariner 9 show that Mars is not a dead planet but is still evolving, according to scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

The pictures, released Tuesday, are showing us a fantastic range of brand new phenomena that no one suspected existed on the planet," said Dr. Carl Sagan of Cornell University.

He said dark splotches, some in craters which appeared clear in earlier photographs, "appear to be in some intrinsic change in surface albedo (reflectivity) so the idea that they're connected with changes on the surface isn't a big extrapolation."

Other photographs released Tuesday showed pits and hollows never seen, basins up to 10 miles across, and rilles or cracks in the Martian crust which are part of a parallel system of fissures extending more than 1,100 miles across the surface.

Some of the pits may have been caused by thawing of ground ice near the pole or may have been carved out by wind-blown dust.

The scientists said the rilles on Mars probably originated in the same way as those on the moon.

In general, the scientists summarized their interpretation of the latest photographs by saying it appeared Mars was still evolving and changing geographically.

Ketchum doctor passes

KETCHUM — Dr. Robert J. Sutcliff, 51, died Monday at the V.A. Hospital in Boise after an extended illness.

He was born May 14, 1920, at Twin Falls. He graduated from the University of Southern California Dental School where he was a member of the Beta Theta Phi fraternity.

Serving in the South Pacific, he was a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy Dental Corps during World War II. He married Wanda Kimes on Dec. 19, 1942, in Los Angeles, Calif. After the war they moved to Twin Falls where he practiced dentistry.

Mrs. Sutcliff moved to Ketchum after his hospitalization. He was a past president of the South Central Idaho Dental Association and had served as secretary of the Idaho Dental Association. He was a member of the Ascension Episcopal Church, Twin Falls.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Robert John Sutcliff, Portland, Ore., and William Edward Sutcliff, Ketchum, one daughter, Mrs. Craig Kathleen Dixon, San Diego, Calif., and one sister, Mrs. E. W. Drenker, Twin Falls.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Friday at St. Thomas Episcopal Church under the direction of the Rvd. Funeral Home, Hailey. Burial will follow in the Ketchum Cemetery.

Mrs. Bowman

Woman vies for Senate

BOISE — Rose Bowman, Boise, today announced her candidacy for the Democratic senatorial nomination, and delivered a strong appeal for expanded national health services, while lashing out at "our gigantic military expenditure."

Mrs. Bowman, in a press conference at the Boise Hotel, said she would campaign on a platform of an end to discrimination toward women, an end to the Vietnam war, an end to pollution and an end to "politics as usual" campaign strategies.

The former Twin Falls High School teacher said the public "should not be fooled by those who say the war in Vietnam is no longer an issue," and said the United States "must get out of Southeast Asia, completely out, and we must begin a program of demilitarization in this land."

Turning to pollution, the candidate said "factories cannot continue belching smoke into the air and pouring residue into the water just as agribusiness and giant corporate farms cannot continue to take over family farms because their owners claim to be able to produce more."

But her main issue, she said, is sex discrimination. "One issue has become more and more evident to me," the 36-year-old Mrs. Bowman said, "I have become aware of discrimination against women. I cannot ignore the issue of justice for persons who have been pacified, persecuted, restrained and ignored for too long."

Mrs. Bowman said at the news conference "the primary reason that health services and other needs of the people are not being met is our gigantic military expenditures."

She also called on the public to consider the state of the nation's economy. "We have reached the current deplorable condition because of a blind commitment to increasing productivity," she said.

The new candidate also announced she would accept maximum campaign contributions of $25. She said she hopes to reverse the trend toward high cost of public campaigning.

Mrs. Bowman is married to a former Ruhl man, Adelbert (Del) Bowman. A native of Washington, she taught in the Twin Falls school system and in California before returning to Boise to take a parttime job with the State Department of Agriculture.

Senate money bills

BOISE (UPI) — State Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, outlined Tuesday a proposed constitutional amendment to allow either house of the Idaho Legislature to introduce revenue measures.

Manley argued that now representation in both the house and senate are based on district population, eliminating any reason for introduction of the revenue measures solely in the house.

Rockfest controls

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the House Judiciary Committee are thinking of dusting off a rock festival control bill vetoed by the governor last year, amending it slightly and giving it another run.

Gov. Cecil Andrus asked in his "state of the state" message Monday for legislation to protect state parks from "flagrant abuses" by larger gatherings. Chairman Clyde Keithly, R-Nampa, of the judiciary committee, said he can see no reason to close a loophole on state parks "and leave other areas open."

(Further details, p. 6)

Electricity theft

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, Tuesday introduced two bills to re-enact laws inadvertently repealed by the new Idaho criminal code. They provided for irrigation headgate control and made it unlawful to steal electricity by bypassing a meter and to refuse to give up a telephone for emergency use.

Solons hold line

BOISE (UPI) — The legislature can continue through fiscal year 1973 with no increase in its appropriation, House Speaker William J. Lanting, R-Holister, told the joint finance appropriations committee Tuesday.

Lanting told the committee the $1 million yearly revolving fund will be sufficient for the next fiscal year. The money is paid the legislature quarterly. (Further details, p. 6)

Talk lengthy, but no action

BOISE (UPI) — An interim committee on ecology talked at length but took no action Tuesday on a proposal to establish a department of environmental protection and health.

To be formed from the present day health department, the measure would expand the state health board to seven members from five and set up two nine-member advisory boards.

One advisory board would be for environmental protection and the other for health services.

Members of the active board would receive $100 per day while in session. Those on the advisory boards would get $25 per day.

As devised by the interim committee, the new agency would have one overall administrator and one assistant administrator for each division.

The board would have the power to write rules with the force of law, investigate and enter private property at reasonable times to inspect.

It could bring both civil and criminal charges.

Some committee members expressed misgivings about the plan as outlined and would like to change it. Another meeting is scheduled for Friday on the program.

Rep. Harold Snow, R-Moscow, said he would like to see specific rules defining the board's authority over solid waste plans. Sen. Bill Crookham, R-Caldwell, said he felt the board should be a continuing body of some kind. As written, the plan would have terms of board members expire when a governor is elected.

Sen. Charles Blythe, D-Pocatello, questioned pay of $100 per day for board members. Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall, defended this, saying those who would serve often are in that income bracket and must take time away from work.

Rep. J. Ward Chatburn, R-Albion, said he did not think there should be two separate advisory boards, suggesting instead there be one integrated board.

"Let the left hand know what the right hand is doing," Chatburn said. "If you're going to have one department — have one department."

But Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston, said "the complaint now is that the advisory boards lack expertise."

"You can't get sufficient expertise on one small-enough board," he said.

Mitchell also asked what will happen when the agency collides with the department of water administration and water resource board on handling of water.

Manley outlines proposed change

BOISE (UPI) — State Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, outlined Tuesday a proposed constitutional amendment to allow either house of the Idaho Legislature to introduce revenue measures.

Manley said the proposal will be introduced through the Senate State Affairs Committee. Idaho's constitution, now patterned after the federal constitution, allows revenue measures to be introduced only in the house.

Manley said, however, the reasons for the restriction "the only one of its type included in the constitution" is that at the time the constitution was drawn up state representatives represented population while the senators represented areas.

But as a result of court rulings, he said, the selection process has changed and now both houses represent population.

RENEE WESTCOTT, staff member of the National Laboratory for Higher Education, speaks before a two and a half day faculty workshop at CSI. The purpose of the program, according to Dr. Terry Smith, college dean, is to "develop individualized instructional systems." The program seeks to lead toward a definition of learning as a "change in behavior."

Bad news comes fast on funding

There will be no carry over from the general fund into the next fiscal year. This fiscal year the budget included a $2.1 million holdover.

And, somehow, the lawmakers must fit $170 million worth of requests into $130 million worth of revenue for a state program. Chisberg estimates will cost $137 million.

Many items under discussion in the opening days of the session will affect the state's coffers.

Senate and House Agricultural Committees meeting in joint session Tuesday discussed pros and cons of removing the state's commodities commission from state government. As dedicated fund commissions they do not use general fund money but the commission's funds are used by the state to draw interest for the general fund.

Rep. John Edwards, R-Council, asked to have a study on revenue projections include an estimate of what an extra penny per package tax on cigarettes would bring to the state.

Members of the House Education Committee tried to guess what Andrus will ask in the way of an increase for public education, which received $44 million in the current fiscal year. Andrus said in his state of the state message he will ask for a larger amount of state support.

Rep. Ernest Allen, R-Nampa, estimated an $8 million increase, but Rep. Ernest Hale, R-Burley, said he thought Allen a little low.

An interim committee meeting Tuesday discussed at length but took no action on a proposal to establish a department of environmental protection and health. Such an agency would require separate funding from the current environmental activities included in the state department of health.

Currently any revenue measures must come from the house — a Constitutional requirement — but Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, is proposing a constitutional amendment to let revenue bills originate from either the house or the senate.

Manley said the original theory behind the limitation was that representatives were chosen to represent "people" and senators to represent "areas."

A Forecast

A couple of congressmen profess to be in the running for the Republican presidential nomination. One, Rep. Paul (Pete) McCloskey, R-Calif., is a liberal, who might be more at home in the Democratic party. The other is Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, a conservative who wants more conservatism from President Nixon.

Ashbrook listed four responses he said he would consider as signals that Nixon is listening to the conservatives and which would enable Ashbrook to withdraw:

Announcement that Vice President Agnew will not be dumped from the ticket, a lower priority for the Family Assistance Welfare plan, an increase in the defense budget, and a Nixon visit to "our loyal allies" in Taiwan after his trip to Peking.

President Nixon already has indicated he sees no reason now to break up "a winning team." Welfare reform will be a hot potato in this election year and may be limited.

An increase in the defense budget doubtless will appeal to both

Congress and the President in view of the high rates of unemployment and the rapid rise in Russia's military and naval arsenal. Nixon already has promised shipworkers on the west coast new emphasis will be given to our Merchant Marine, lagging far behind Russia's. And a visit to Taiwan should be easy to arrange.

President Nixon holds the center of the stage and neither Ashbrook nor McCloskey expects to prevent his re-nomination.

The 1972 race for the White House pits Nixon against the field, with liberal Senators dominating the ranks of Democratic hopefuls. This leaves Rep. Ashbrook, William Buckley, Jr. and other conservatives with nowhere to go without Nixon.

The upcoming primaries will tell the candidates and the rest of us which way the wind is blowing. Forecast for March 7: A gale in the New Hampshire Republican Presidential Primary, which may blow McCloskey and Ashbrook out of the race and give a boost to Nixon and Agnew.

WASHINGTON — In all the new hullabaloo about the Vietnam War and the plight of American prisoners-of-war, the baffling question is why President Nixon, that shrewd political poker player, refuses to call the North Vietnamese bluff. Hanoi keeps saying that the American POWs will be released "tomorrow" if Nixon sets a terminal date for withdrawal of all U.S. and allied troops and the ending of U.S. support for the South Vietnamese government. In essence, these are Points I and II of the Communists' seven-point peace plan.

All right. Why in heaven's name doesn't Richard Nixon — publicly, and with all the fanfare the White House can muster — announce the date? "You have said that if I set this date, our prisoners can come home tomorrow," Nixon could tell Hanoi. "Very well. Here's your date." Then he could give the North Vietnamese a week, or a month, to make good on their pledge. In short, he would be telling the world that the United States was acting in good faith and it was now up to Hanoi to put up or shut up.

The stickler is the administration's unwillingness to "desert" the Saigon regime of President Thieu. Nixon wants to give the South Vietnamese as much time as possible to attain a position which would enable them successfully to resist a Communist takeover. He wants to wait until he is sure Vietnamization has worked.

But the indisputable fact is that Nixon eventually intends to withdraw all support from Saigon, with no residual American force remaining in Vietnam and no air support of the Saigon armed forces. He made that clear in his CBS television interview when he said such a withdrawal depended "on the situation with regard to our POWs."

To be sure, the White House has added that the U.S. was still insisting that the South Vietnamese "have a chance to determine their own future."

But that could be an exercise in semantics. The argument can be made that Saigon has that chance today. In announcing a date for total American withdrawal, Nixon surely could assert that he was convinced South Vietnam would be in shape to handle the Communist forces by, say, next June 30. After all, it is Nixon's prerogative to make that decision.

There are a number of reasons why the President should meet Hanoi's demands. The vast majority of Americans engaged since our imperialist invasion of Mexico in 1946. The war is sapping our economic strength, while still claiming American lives.

But the most important from Nixon's personal standpoint is that the war again could become a political issue if Hanoi chooses to make it so. North Vietnam already has stepped up military operations in Indochina and, indeed, as this is written it may have launched a major offensive designed to handicap Nixon's efforts to disengage. Almost any Democrat could beat Nixon in November if the war were escalated into the raging hell of a few years back.

Then there are Nixon's upcoming visits to Peking and Moscow. For their own separate reasons, both the Chinese and the Russians want the U.S. out of Vietnam. The President's speaker hand with both governments would be immeasurably stronger if he set that confounded date.

Finally, there would be a propaganda triumph. Once Nixon set the date, it would be Hanoi's move, and the Communists would be under strong pressure from world opinion to redouble their POW pander.

Should Hanoi reject Nixon's overture, actually amounting to a capitulation, or even hem and haw around it would have a hard time explaining to the rest of the world Richard Nixon would indeed have called the Communists bluff.

Robot Exploration

Navy engineers in San Diego have put together an aquatic robot with a remotely controlled television camera. In the words of a certain commercial slogan, it's the next best thing to being there.

The camera is guided by the head motions of an above-water operator. Every time he turns or tilts his head, the underwater camera does the same, transmitting an image to a television screen held in front of the operator by a head-harness. The effect is startlingly similar to direct vision, reports New York Times science writer Walter Sullivan.

Other systems under development may eventually provide three dimensional vision, hearing and even a rudimentary sense of a feeling by means of manipulators electronically controlled by movements of the operator's hands and fingers.

The engineers look to a time when a man, sitting in a warm, dry, safe environment, can "swim" to virtually unlimited depths, turning his head to look here and there as he performs such tasks as manipulating valves on oil rigs, collecting seabottom samples or opening hatches on sunken vessels.

Such "teleoperators" would be even more effective than an actual man on the scene, who would be hampered by cumbersome life-support equipment and the emotional stresses of a hazardous situation.

While the Navy is interested only in terrestrial applications, it is possible that someday astronauts, sitting in shirtsleeves orbiting command modules, will remotely explore such hostile planets as Jupiter or Venus through sensory hookups with robots on the surface.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Rotten Apples

WASHINGTON (NFA) — While we're passing the distrust around, let's save a healthy portion for America's academic world. Discust is the proper response to some of the capers being executed these days in the name of "free inquiry."

The year-end meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science provided the most recent example of crude, juvenile behavior by a bunch of ruffians masquerading as scholars.

No need to review here the disruptive antics of the animals who threw tomatoes at Sen. Hubert Humphrey, planted sixth-grade graffiti on the platform, compelled the AAAS to bring in the police to protect former government figures William Bundy, Morton Halperin and Leslie Gelb.

The organization can't defend itself, either, by arguing that some of the offenders were not members of AAAS or even academics. If it chooses to open its meeting to the public, it has an obvious obligation to maintain order and protect the safety of its members. The truth is, of course, that the militants, whether actually scholars or just outside ringers, are blackmailers by trade. Consciously intent upon denying free speech to others, they demand its full benefits for themselves.

They find it easy to bulldoze the chicken-hearted academic leaders, many in number, who virtually collapse before anything done in the name of free speech.

The evidence mounts that the shortcomings of the academic fraternity go well beyond the strong-arm bullying which nowadays sports so many scholarly gatherings.

There are legions of stories about the faculty boycott and harassment of countless academics who, in the past decade or so, have dared to labor for the federal government. Many are denied jobs, despite scholarly attainments. The less accomplished may fare better, provided their anti-Vietnam war credentials are highly visible.

What this scholastic nonsense has to do with education and scholarship is impossible to guess.

And this is not the worst of it. We are no longer on safe ground with the academics even when we get away from those disreputable shouters who make a specialty of mind-lessness. A good many alleged scholars have gone into the business of practicing deception, at the very moment they are most loudly proclaiming governmental deceit.

Dr. Jean Mayer, Harvard nutritionist, recently took note of this misbehavior. He says many academics are filling the air with confusing and exaggerated statements on major public issues.

Months back, a well-sponsored investigation suggested that scientists both for and against the anti-ballistic missile had been guilty of distorting evidence, ignoring relevant material, making judgments on the basis of insufficient facts.

Too many scholars are too busy these days dishing out "point of view" stuff. Suffering delusions of grandeur, they do not see ignorance as any bar. We out here in layman's land are slowly learning to choose among them every bit as critically as we choose among politicians in 1972.

Hold the phone, we've learned something surprising over Vietnam. The missiles miss.

Don't cancel those aircraft orders, the missiles miss. Our planes are back to dogfighting again.

Such a few months ago our Pentagon started putting most of your eggs in the missile basket. If we could fire heat-seeking missiles at planes, either from the ground or from other planes, missiles which would actually home in on, chase down and blow up enemy aircraft, who'd need fighter-bombers with guns any more?

But suddenly we discovered that a SAM missile is no match for a maneuvering plane. If you can see it coming, you can duck it until its few minutes' fuel is exhausted. Put even the newer, more sophisticated SAM on your wingtip and dive and there's no way it can turn tight enough to catch you.

So now, in the same war in which we'd abandoned the gun as a primary air-to-air weapon, we're reinstalling it. We're relying on 20 mm guns in our present generation F-4, future versions of this flying blowtorch will mount 25 and 30 mm guns.

And if the air war continues over Indochina you'll be hearing less about missiles and more about MIGs. The fuel range of the MIG limits them to the north; as we close in on Hanoi we encounter them. Consistently we are challenged by them over Laos. In late December we lost four jets in one day up there; three to MIGs.

To a layman a missile sounds ominous, but airmen would rather bet on a bullet which, at upper altitudes, adds to its own velocity the launch velocity of the plane itself.

And the new guns are fancier, the lead is computed automatically. During the Sixties there was much more conjecture about the impracticability of dogfighting at supersonic speeds, we don't because of the G-factor limitations of pilots and aircraft, most all dogfighting is done at subsonic speeds.

With fighter-bombers increasing in importance — for bomber cover and close ground support — our Air Force is having to re-emphasize pilot training.

By previous standards, too many of our present pilots are meek, inexperienced. Present planes are so expensive that our replacement training program has been made supersafe: pilot proficiency suffers.

Where we used to wash out three out of four Air Force cadets, almost nobody is flunked out any more. And the reenlistment rate has been bad. By 1975, 87 per cent of our cockpits will be filled by less than five-year men.

Recent pay hikes may encourage reenlistment — but our fighter pilot quality right now is not good and our men in combat are further limited by such strict rules of engagement that Vietnam is not a proper measure of capability of the modern fighter-bomber when it's unfettered and operated at its optimum.

By previous standards, too many of our present pilots are meek, inexperienced. Present planes are so expensive that our replacement training program has been made supersafe: pilot proficiency suffers.

Where we used to wash out three out of four Air Force cadets, almost nobody is flunked out any more. And the reenlistment rate has been bad. By 1975, 87 per cent of our cockpits will be filled by less than five-year men.

Recent pay hikes may encourage reenlistment — but our fighter pilot quality right now is not good and our men in combat are further limited by such strict rules of engagement that Vietnam is not a proper measure of capability of the modern fighter-bomber when it's unfettered and operated at its optimum.

With fighter-bombers increasing in importance — for bomber cover and close ground support — our Air Force is having to re-emphasize pilot training.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Tongue Tied

Dear Dr. Thosteson, Please tell me something about babies being tongue-tied. Why would it be necessary to wait until a child is a year old and then go to the hospital?

I had three that were tongue-tied and all they did was clip it when they were three days old. Why don't doctors find this when they examine babies now? Or do you think they are too busy? This child is six months old, and it was an aunt who noticed it.

Well, I was the aunt. But the fact that she was the first to remark on it, and evidently nobody else in the family did, may have some bearing on your questions.

If a child is tongue-tied, it is not a particularly difficult matter to clip the tissue to permit normal movement of the tongue. Sometimes it has to be done — and that's that.

It used to be that any time the tissue below the tongue was a little short, it was clipped. There are many things that we used to think necessary which no longer are done routinely, and this is one of them.

By experience, it was learned that, as a baby grows, the structure of the mouth often changes so it is not necessary to do any clipping. So today there is no longer the urge to clip the tongue-tissue in newborn babies. If it has to be done later on, at the age of a year, more or less, it can be done then.

If you are concerned about this situation, have the baby examined by a pediatrician.

Pediatricians are quite familiar with baby mouths, and can give you a pretty sound estimate at six months whether clipping is necessary or whether you should wait a few more months to be sure that they didn't notice this baby's tongue but decided to wait and see whether any cutting would ever have to be done.

Dear Dr. Thosteson, After reading your articles concerning venereal disease, why couldn't there be a requirement for a blood test before attending junior and senior high school? It could be the same as for vaccination, and would be required each time before starting school.

Would the cost and the pains from such a test be worth the effort?

An appropriate question. I don't think it's practical. For one thing, a blood test will disclose syphilis but will not disclose gonorrhea, which is about 70 times as prevalent.

Just making the test doubtless would help to some extent, but it is not preventive in the sense of vaccination, and there is no vaccine for V.D. The tests would prevent somebody from getting V.D. and then starting to spread it the day after a test.

The effective answer to V.D. rests with the individual learning enough about how V.D. spread how to avoid it, how to keep from giving it to anyone.

With fighter-bombers increasing in importance — for bomber cover and close ground support — our Air Force is having to re-emphasize pilot training.

MR. SPECTATOR

Along Came A Spider

There's something about a bug that irritates me. Assuming that a spider is a bug, I can't remember my algebra, biology or whatever it is that far back; then I would tell you a little tale about one of the things.

The creature I'm concerned about — or rather was concerned about — was about as big around as a dime and was all snuggled up in a corner of my bedroom. I was just ready to hit the sack when I spotted the thing.

I dashed into the bath, grabbed a handful of tissue paper, ran back into the bedroom and eyed the thing from a distance.

I then made a quick decision. It might be a black widow spider and you know what they might do to you. So I threatened bodily harm if Mrs. Spectator didn't climb out of bed, take the tissue I was offering, her and then capture the intruder.

She did just that. And Mr. Spectator still considers spiders and the like as frightening things.

To carry this into more depth, where could a spider come from in the middle of the winter? It's just too cold outside for the likes of him. Could it be that he was spending the winter with us? Before he became a casualty and took a trip through the sewer line?

TWO STATES

In Idaho the lawmakers — at the suggestion of Governor Andrus — are thinking of a change in income tax figuring which would raise our tax — thus getting more money to spend.

In Business Week this week is an advertisement paid for by the State Development Board of South Carolina. Know what they advertise? They ask new business to come to their state because there they have no inventory taxes, no raw materials tax, no finished goods taxes, no property taxes, no production machinery taxes and even the state income tax is the lowest in the nation.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE

As soon as a man gets a job where he's paid for time off, his common colds develop into sinus trouble.

UNUSUAL

Only 78 people came from Los Angeles to Sun Valley on the special ski train early this week. When Hughes Airwest is operating through Twin Falls, that number of people getting off the jets here and climbing on the bus for Sun Valley is considered a light load.

Revisions speeded on criminal code

BOISE (UPI) — Moving with unusual dispatch, the House Judiciary Committee Tuesday voted to make Idaho's controversial, new criminal code more workable until the legislature decides whether to repeal it.

Without a dissenting vote, the committee sent to the floor with its stamp of approval four bills introduced on the opening day, Monday, to revise the code. Then it asked Chairman Clyde Keithly, R-Nampa, to name a subcommittee of three to act as a "clearing house" for proposed amendments to the code and to set up a joint Senate-House committee on the measure which went into effect the first of the year.

Committee members discussed at length the very strong possibility the code may be repealed by the legislature. The code has been reported from throughout the state. Rep. Earl C. Greenawald, R-Jerome, voted to send out the four bills to amend the code but made it clear to fellow committee members he favors its outright repeal.

"I think we've got an old can of worms, and I don't think we're going to do any good by putting fresh dirt in it," Greenawald said. "I think there's quite a sentiment to repeal this criminal code."

Rep. Don Brennan, D-Pocatello, who voted against the new code last year said now that the code is a fact of law, the best thing would be for the legislature to improve it so it is more workable. He added that it already has his local prosecutor working more closely with local police.

Reps. Terry Crapo, R-Idaho Falls, and Keithly introduced the four bills approved by the committee at Tuesday's meeting. These measures would: — Repeal the 120-day hold by the court on defendants before final execution of their sentences.

— Eliminate the requirement that judges order pre-sentence investigations for all defendants under the age of 22, even those charged only with misdemeanors.

— Strike the words "in this state" from section defining crimes and violations.

— Remove the requirement that all misdemeanor defendants be given legal counsel if they cannot afford it and extend such a right only to petty misdemeanor cases where an "extended term" is charged.

Crapo said that the legal counsel requirement was one of the major complaints about the new criminal code. He said some counties believe the cost of providing such counsel for all types of cases

Bills introduced

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, Tuesday introduced two bills to re-enact provisions of the code inadvertently repealed by Idaho's new criminal code.

They provided for irrigation headgate control and made it unlawful to steal electricity by bypassing a meter and to refuse to give up a telephone for emergency use.

Antone also introduced a bill to require wavy lines or "stop ahead" to be painted on secondary roads to warn of stop signs ahead. Such warnings, he said, could have prevented some traffic deaths in his county when out-of-area motorists used the roads.

Appropriation hike unneeded

BOISE (UPI) — The legislature can continue through fiscal year 1978 with no increase in its appropriation, House Speaker William J. Fanning, R-Idaho Falls, told the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee Tuesday.

Fanning told the members the $1 million yearly revolving fund will be sufficient for the next fiscal year. The money is paid to the legislature each quarter.

Fanning told the committee the first session of the 118th legislature cost $924,031, divided into $49,479 for the 10 member house and $884,552 for the 6-member senate.

The legislative council asked the committee for $139,750 compared with its current budget of $145,084. The council is funded from the general fund with a small amount from the highway fund.

Sen. Richard Hoch, R-Twin Falls, co-chairman of the committee, outlined the budget request for Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy for $40,000, compared with current funding of $36,000. Murphy's request noted the final budget will be determined by assignments given to him during the current session by the legislature.

Richard L. Barrett, acting state personnel director, asked for $629,831 for the Idaho Personnel Commission from its dedicated fund in fiscal 1977, compared with current funding of $156,384.

Demos want

two groups

BOISE (UPI) — Senate Democrats reaffirmed in caucus today their stand to retain both the Senate Labor and Economic Development Committee and the Commerce and Banking Committee.

It has been proposed that the committees be merged and membership on the remaining committee and labor committee be raised from seven to nine.

The chair of the Labor and Economic Development Committee has been vacant since the last session of the Legislature. Fisher Ellsworth, R-Idaho Falls.

The carbonated soft drinks industry spends more than $300 million a year in advertising.

Idaho may break even

BOISE (UPI) — Tax collection figures released Monday show the state may just break even at the end of the current fiscal year if spending is curbed and no supplemental funding is granted.

But acting Budget Director D.E. "Skip" Chilberg said there are "solid needs demanding about $100,000" that will require supplemental funding and the further possibility suits filed at two state institutions for alleged overtime may take over $600,000 if state employees are successful.

Alternatives are for the legislature to find funding from other sources or for a further curb on state spending, according to Chilberg.

"It's a manageable problem," he said, "but should the employees win the lawsuit it would mean nothing else but reduction of services over what we've planned."

The figures from the State Tax Commission show distribution of taxes to the general fund is up 5.2 per cent once the figure is adjusted for the change last year from quarterly to monthly payment of withholding taxes.

But the total collected for the general fund, $48.9 million thus far, must reach $129.3 million by June 30 if the state is to match the amount appropriated by the 1977 legislature.

Already Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has ordered a one per cent holdback in appropriations. He hopes to pick up $800,000 although the holdback will not affect public education, the judiciary, the legislature and the elected officials.

For the 1972 legislature, the figures mean there will probably be no carry-over from the current fiscal year into the next. The current budget included a $2.4 million carry-over from the 1971 fiscal year. The Tax Commission figures show counties have received an additional $1.6 million of sales tax money this far in the current fiscal year. Part of that is because counties are now receiving 20 per cent of the sales tax money to replace the phased out inventory tax.

Andrus in 1971 recommended holding the line on the county payout to 15 per cent instead of 20 per cent, which, if the legislature had approved, would have given the state coffers more money.

In 1971 the legislature gave cities one of the seven-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax and as a result cities have received

Licenses OK from 2 states

BOISE (UPI) — The House Resources and Conservation Committee voted Tuesday to introduce a bill allowing either a Wyoming or Idaho fishing license to be used on all of Palisades Reservoir.

Committee members took the action, noting it is difficult to tell where the Idaho-Wyoming border occurs on the reservoir. While most of the water is in Idaho its sources are in Wyoming, the lawmakers noted.

Besides allowing using a fishing license from either state, the bill also provides for joint management of the reservoir by the two states.

Carole Mink, Iben exchange promise

TWIN FALLS — Carole Lynn Mink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mink, Twin Falls, became the bride of Douglas Alan Iben, son of Rev. and Mrs. Harold Iben, in an evening ceremony Dec. 28 at the Immanuel Lutheran Church.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Iben. The verses were led by Rick Jach, Portland, Ore. The scripture lesson was read by Dave Hartenberger, Albuquerque, New Mex., and the wedding address was given by Rev. Erwin Wiegner, Portland, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

The altar was marked with a large bouquet of pink poinsettias, white daisies, and deep red roses. A Christ candle was lit on the altar through the ceremony from which the couple each lit a candle as a symbol of the light of Christ in their marriage.

Two gold floor candelabra held pink tapers and were accented with bouquets of holly and pink chrysanthemums and tied with pink streamers. The center aisle was roped off with a garland of Christmas greens tied with pink ribbons. The parents' pews were marked with gold candelabra with crystal chime holding single pink candles. These candelabra were decorated with Christmas greens, holly, and pink chrysanthemums tied with pink ribbons.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her parents, wore a white, floorlength Victorian gown, fashioned with a high neckline and bishop sleeves terminating in scalloped lace outlines. The chiffon gown was overlaid with an embroidered silk organza pinafore with ruffle-trimmed bib front and deep cascading ruffles from the bow in the back.

The shoulder-length silk illusion veil, worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Wilford Ward, at her wedding, was caught in a Gumpire lace bonnet highlighted with seed pearls and flowing satin ribbons ending in lace medallions. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a small diamond necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

The gown and veil were designed and made by the bride's mother.

The bride carried a nosegay of white daisies, pink and white rosebuds and baby's breath tied with pink and white streamers. She carried a handtatted handkerchief, carried by her sister at her wedding, which belonged to her maternal great-grandmother.

Carolyn Smith, Great Falls, Mont., served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Deenie and Lorri Mink, sisters of the bride, and Cynthia and Sylvia Iben, twin sisters of the bridegroom.

Jach, roommate of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsman were Hartenberger, friend of the bridegroom; Verlin Rose and

Rev. Erwin Wichner, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Will Ward, brother-in-law of the bride. Wayne Beebe, Wendell, friend of the bridegroom, served as head usher.

The two tiers of the cake were fruit cake baked especially for the bride.

by her great uncle, Paul Kopp, and shipped from Seattle, Wash. Crystal candelabra holding pink candles, a silver punch bowl and coffee service completed the table appointments. Guest tables were covered with white cloths and centered with pink candles encircled with Christmas greens.

Mrs. Erwin Wichner and Mrs. Verlin Rose, sisters of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake. Punch and coffee were served by Mrs. William Cline, great-aunt and godmother of the bride, and Mrs. Richard Kopp, aunt of the bride.

Mrs. Wilford Ward, sister of the bride, attended the guest book. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kopp, grandparents of the bride; Mrs. Cora Brady, great-aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. William Cline, Coquille, Ore., godparents of the bride. Guests attended from surrounding Magic Valley towns, Washington, Oregon, Montana, New Mexico and Florida.

The bride's parents and grandparents hosted a champagne supper for the couple, members of their families and the wedding party after the church reception. After opening their gifts, the bride and bridegroom cut and served the second tier of the wedding cake to the guests.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents. A miscellaneous shower was given for the bride by Cynthia and Sylvia Iben.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Sun Valley, after which they returned to St. Louis, Mo., where the bridegroom is a student at Concordia Lutheran Seminary and is employed as an orderly at a local hospital. The bride is a sociology student at the University of Missouri and is employed by Lutheran child and family service. They reside at 7707 Lindberg Drive, Apt. 1, St. Louis, Mo.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The game was match-point duplicate. South will have no trouble collecting nine tricks with hearts as trump or eight tricks at no-trump.

Thus when South does play at one no-trump it is important for him to get nine tricks. It is important for the defense to hold him to the eight.

If West opens a club, the defense is easy. We watched West open the five of diamonds. East's jack forced declarer's ace and South proceeded to cash his five heart tricks.

West had to discard on the third heart and decided to let the six of diamonds go. Then came the fourth heart and West had a problem. He knew that South held the diamond 10 since East had played the jack. Therefore West decided not to let another diamond go. Instead he jettisoned the jack of clubs. East dropped the deuce of spades after a spade was thrown from dummy and the last heart was led.

West saw that he could not chuck a spade and let the deuce of clubs go. East threw the seven of clubs whereupon South led a club and eventually set up a club for his ninth trick.

West criticized East quite properly. East did not need to hold on to his diamonds.

Send $1 for JACOBY MODERN book to "Win at Bridge," (c/o this newspaper), P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019

West pointed out that he could not unguard the diamond queen because that would set up South's 10. We agree but, nevertheless, West could have unguarded the diamond queen since there would be no way for South to get to his hand to score a trick with it.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I have been considering your statement, "All that is necessary for a marriage to succeed is that the two people really need each other." I guess I don't know what you mean by "succeed."

My wife and I need each other. She is my cook, housekeeper, and laundress. She raises the children and makes most of the decisions in the family.

I provide her with a good income and am available for heavy jobs around the house, errands, and occasional child caring.

We have no sex life, and haven't for the last 4 years of our 13-year marriage. That is her one decision I protested, but without result. Our anniversaries come and go without comment. Divorce and remarriage is out of the question because we took the vow to stay together. "Till death do us part." Furthermore, one look at our widowed acquaintances shows us life alone is hardly preferable.

So we plod along, yoked together in this polite, sterile, wretched alliance you call a "success."

I would amend your statement to say "All that is necessary for a marriage to endure is that the two people really need each other."

ENDURING

DEAR ENDURING: Your "amendment" is approved and appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are fairly new in town and we recently had some of our new friends over for a dinner party. I served a dessert that made a big hit with all the guests. One lady asked for the recipe.

I tried to get out of giving it to her, but she kept after me until I agreed to mail it to her.

My problem is that recipe is a specialty of mine that has been in my family for years and I don't want everyone in town making it, yet I don't know how to gracefully get out of giving it to her. Do you think I'm being selfish?

How can I handle this? I can't avoid this woman much longer.

NEW IN TOWN

DEAR NEW: Because you promised her the recipe, give it to her. If you didn't want to share it, you should have told her it was a family secret and you preferred to keep it that way.

Yes, I think you're being selfish. If everybody in town were to enjoy your favorite dessert, it would in no way diminish your enjoyment of it. C'mon, share!

DEAR ABBY: I am a young wife. We've been married eight years, and my husband has yet to call me by my first name. He doesn't even call me "honey" or anything like that. He just doesn't call me anything.

If he wants to get my attention, he'll say, "Hey," or, "Say, there." Or he'll just start-right in talking to me, still not using any kind of name.

I really burn when he calls the office and says, "Sally, is the boss in?" (Sally he can call Sally. Me he has no name for.)

When he telephones me at home, and isn't sure he has the right number, he asks, "Is this 265-6888?" I stay mad at him for days over this.

At Christmas his card with his present reads, "I'm not much for words, but I love you, Honey."

Now, why can't he call me "Honey" once in a while if he doesn't want to use my name?

QUIETLY BURNING

DEAR BURNING: Why don't you ask him? Instead of quietly burning, tell him how important it is to you to be addressed by name, or in some personal way. If he forgets — remind him. And remind him. But do it gently, with patience and without anger.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TOO EMBARRASSED FOR WORDS" IN SARASOTA, FLA.: Tell your therapist everything. The more he knows about you, the more he can help you. Besides, he has heard everything, and you won't check him.

What's your problem? You're just better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

TWIN FALLS — Four major highway proposals have been adopted for study by the Twin Falls Transportation Development and Planning Committee, Chairman Ralph Olmstead said Tuesday.

The committee is a subcommittee of the county's Resource Planning and Development Committee which is part of the four-county planning organization, the South Idaho Planning and Development Commission.

Olmstead said his group met Monday in the Twin Falls Highway District office to discuss county transportation and highway needs.

some type of improvement is needed at U. S. 30's east on Eastland Drive because of numerous accidents at the intersection. Traffic control lights and other control measures were discussed.

Members of the committee will meet with the state highway board and engineers to discuss U. S. 93 routing and improvement and will also review the state's proposals for U. S. 30 and Eastland Drive, Olmstead said.

On U. S. 30 west of Buhl, the committee called for further study of what is needed before a proposal is made.

The proposed belt around the city for truck routes would require about four miles of unimproved road. Future study was called for by the committee on this proposed project.

About 13 persons, representing highway districts, city councils, zoning and other interests attended the meeting.

Koll heads C. of C.

WENDELL — Mark Koll, a Wendell realtor, was named president of the Wendell Chamber of Commerce this morning.

Lloyd Little, Wendell, was elected vice president.

John Wert, outgoing president of the chamber, reported that the Christmas lighting fund has an "excess of money," which can be used for other projects.

Koll, on assuming the presidency, said Wendell is at a vital point in development, and asked members to assist him in strengthening the chamber. He said the Wendell brochure was an outstanding project of 1971, and other projects had been completed successfully.

He said that before the February meeting, he will meet with the other officers and the board of directors to analyze the existing program and budget for the coming year.

Koll recommended that all chamber members attend a public meeting at 8 p.m. today in the high school library to consider a building program for the Wendell School District. The Booster Club is a sponsor of the program.

TF canal directors name Watt

TWIN FALLS — William Watt Buhl was named to the board of directors of the Twin Falls Canal Co. succeeding Sam Moore during the annual meeting of the stockholders on Tuesday.

Moore is retiring from the board after 14 years of service. Other directors were re-elected, while a challenger, William Rude, failed to gain election to the board.

The final vote tally included Tom Olmstead, Twin Falls, 27,000 votes; Al Kramer, Castleford, 104,000; Ed Eubank, 98,219; Watt, 94,009; and Ray Frahm, 89,595. Rude lost by less than 4,000 votes, with 85,886.

Shoshone man guilty

SHOSHONE — A six-man jury deliberated 30 minutes Tuesday before finding a Shoshone man guilty of driving while intoxicated.

Magistrate C. M. Wilson, upon decision of the jury, fined Dr. W. A. Turska $300 plus $750 in court costs, and sentenced him to 10 days in the Lincoln County jail.

The jail sentence was suspended upon payment of the fine. Dr. Turska had previously entered a plea of not guilty to the citation issued in Twin Falls Nov. 21, 1971.

Rudolph Barchas, Twin Falls attorney, represented the defendant. Howard E. Adkins, Lincoln County prosecutor, handled the case for the state.

Project within estimates

HAILEY — Final construction cost estimates on phases two and three of the $1.25 million Hailey water and sewer system run near bid costs, a consulting engineer for the project told the Hailey City Council Monday night.

Construction on the entire project began in October, 1970, and was substantially completed Dec. 15.

Harold Cox, representing J. C. R. Engineers of Boise, said phase two — the sewage treatment plant and outflow lines — will cost about $332,000. The bid price on that portion of the project was about $325,000, he said.

Cox said tree removal costs and other factors caused increased costs. But he said that final construction costs on phase three — the water distribution and sewer collection lines — fell below bid costs. He estimated that costs will total about $613,000; phase three was bid at $615,000.

Contractor for phase two was Newell J. Olson, Logan, Utah.

Five golden eagles electrocuted in Blue Gulch area of TF County

CASTLEFORD — Five golden eagles have been found dead on the Blue Gulch area of Twin Falls County and Idaho Fish and Game Department personnel said the birds were apparently electrocuted.

Joe Arnette, conservation officer who found four of the birds, said wings of all the birds are singed where they struck high voltage lines. The fifth was found by an area resident.

He said the birds apparently were resting on poles when they spread their wings and struck the wires. He said the birds with wingspans averaging more than seven feet, have all been dead about the same length of time, but because of cold weather conditions it is impossible to tell the exact time of death.

One of the birds carried a color-coded cloth wing band put on two or three years ago through a program at the University of Idaho in cooperation with federal agencies.

Arnette said golden eagles are protected by federal law and that the dead birds will be sent to the Federal Wildlife Agency for autopsies. He said the birds are protected when they are dead and is unlawful for people to be in possession of even a part of the birds, unless permission has been granted by federal authorities.

Arnette said he found four of the dead birds Sunday about 10 miles from U. S. Highway 30 between Castleford and the Snake River. He said all were along the roadway. He found another earlier in the year which also had been electrocuted.

Arnette said there is undoubtedly some unlawful hunting of the birds going on in the area, but none have been found shot.

He believes none of the five birds found had reached full maturity, which takes from four to five years.

RICHFIELD — Mrs. Keith (Billie) Swanson, Richfield's first woman council member, was sworn in Tuesday night to begin a four-year term.

Also taking office at the start of a four-year term was Councilman John Lemmon, re-elected in November. Mrs. Swanson was also elected at that time. Mrs. Ruth Swanson, city clerk, administered the oaths of office during a meeting repeatedly interrupted by power outages.

Recall petitions nearing total

JEROME — Petitions on the movement to recall three Jerome City Council members may be filed by the end of the week, according to Jerome attorney S. A. Kolman.

Kolman, who is representing former Police Chief C. H. Puntny, said today that 160 signatures have been collected on a number of petitions requesting the recall of Councilmen S. S. (Shorty) Weeks, Walter Bentzinger and Elwin Tinker. Other petitions are still circulating, Kolman said.

Under state law, a minimum of 175 signatures of registered voters must be collected on petitions seeking recall of each of the three councilmen. The petitions must be certified by the city clerk, then presented to the council.

More than 150 voters have registered at the city office since the recall movement began.

Each of the three councilmen must state his position in writing within seven days after the petitions are presented to the council. Each may choose to resign his post or may wait for the results of the recall vote.

Meanwhile, Jerome Mayor J. A. Jack Russell said today that he traveled to Boise on Monday to enroll his grandson at Boise State College. He said he did not confer with the attorney general's office as was reported earlier.

A complication in the recall drive is the state law prohibiting recall of a new council member before he has served three months. Weeks is serving his first term, taking office earlier this month, and could not be recalled until the end of March.

Kolman has refused comment on this aspect, saying he is "working on the ease" for his client, Puntny.

If the councilmen elect to fight the recall, the council must schedule a recall vote, according to state law. With three of the five councilmen named as defendants, they have the unusual position of scheduling the vote that could end their terms of office.

A bank account has been opened at the Bank of Idaho in Jerome to accept donations from Puntny supporters, helping him fight his ouster as Jerome chief of police.

Former councilman Dale Peterson was appointed to fill a vacancy on the city planning and zoning commission.

Head Start's funds hiked

BY DAVID ESPO Times-News writer

BURLEY — Head Start programs in Twin Falls, Cassia and Jerome counties will receive increased federal appropriations for 1972, but other programs in the area are being cut back.

Norman McIntosh, who directs the tri-county program, told directors of the South Central Community Action Agency Tuesday that federal officials had approved a budget of $80,000 for 1972. The figure for a year ago was $56,400.

"It's a damned good budget, in as much as they've cut budgets in the area," McIntosh said. "We're putting our marbles where we need them the most. We've got good dental and medical services now, good supplies, good teachers and the payroll to pay them."

McIntosh said approximately $160,000 of the budgeted funds would support a half-day program for a projected 220 pre-schoolers in Twin Falls and Cassia County. The remaining $100,000 will fund the Head Start full-day program in the three counties, serving 110 students.

Regional OEO officials at the meeting questioned legality of the budgeting procedure followed by McIntosh, telling him he should have cleared the budget with the board prior to Tuesday night. McIntosh told the officials he had not been able to assemble the 19-member board for action, but had consulted the CAA's executive committee and a parent advisory committee of the Head Start constituency before submitting the final budget requests.

The board postponed a scheduled election of officers until the February meeting, to allow more board members to be present for the balloting. About half of the board was present Tuesday night.

The board also heard a report from Gary Kraft, chairman-pro tem of the newly formed Community Improvement Association.

Manuel Lopez, the CAA's Burley director, asked the board to help him find a facility for a proposed health clinic for the three-county region.

He said Bruce Whitmore, a VISTA worker in Burley, had been attempting to organize the operation, but had been unable to locate a suitable building. Lopez said he has access to equipment to outfit the clinic, and that two doctors have agreed to help man the program beginning this summer.

Fiscal trade agreed

GOODING — Gooding Mayor Harley Crippen told county commissioners Monday the city will pay $4,300 for its share of the 24-hour police radio operation if the county will pay $2,500 toward the airport.

The mayor said if the county cannot pay this, then city will only be able to pay $2,500 for its share of the police services.

Ralph Faulkner requested that private land which lies along public land be fenced. Andy James, county prosecutor, drew up a resolution calling on owners of property to put up legal fences between their land and public domain.

The county commissioners have been working for two days on the county budget, hearing requests from the various departments.

Blustery winds create havoc

In the Burley area, wind gusts up to 53 miles an hour were reported. Police there said a trailer home was overturned by winds but no injuries were reported. Rupert police said some street signs were blown down, but no other damage reports.

State highway officials said plows from throughout the district are working to clear drifts from highways, including State Highways 46 and 68.

Linking Fairfield with Gooding and Mountain Home. Both roads have been closed since Monday.

Other roads in the area are snow covered and drifting, and traveler's warnings were issued for the Magic Valley U. S. Highway 93 is reported snow covered with drifts south of Twin Falls.

There were reports that a mobile home was overturned in the Bliss area but it was not known whether it was parked or was being moved on the highway at the time.

Elsewhere in Idaho, nearly 2,000 employees at the National Reactor Testing Station spent Tuesday night there after a caravan of 40 buses was forced to turn back by 10-foot-high drifts and gale force winds. Two buses carrying workers from the site to Idaho Falls collided with a truck stalled by the storm, and the highway could not be cleared.

Drifts closed many highways in central, northern and eastern Idaho and high winds disrupted power service to many towns in the northern and eastern parts of the state.

About 49 persons, half of them children, were reported stranded Tuesday night in the Pine Basin near Swan Valley, where another 300 persons were reported snowed in. Efforts were being made to reach those groups.

Blaine adds highway section

HAILEY — A section of State Highway 23 dropped from the state highway system has been added to the Blaine County system, Blaine County Commissioners said Monday.

The section includes about 12 miles of road from the junction with U. S. Highway 30, south of Bellevue, to the junction with State Highway 68, west of Phalo. In a letter to the commission, the Idaho Board of Highway Districts said that it relinquished jurisdiction and control over the section, effective Dec. 31, because of the new route afforded by Highway 68.

In another action, Blaine County Prosecuting Atty. Stephen W. Bolter presented his budget for next year. He said the budget was about four per cent higher than last year's $1,600 budget.

Bolter said it included an appropriation of $1,200 for a deputy prosecutor.

Commission Chairman John Fox asked Bolter to cut his budget by $475 to align with last year's appropriation.

Handicapped association hears state president

TWIN FALLS — A state and national representative for retarded children spoke to the Magic Valley Association for Handicapped People at the Tuesday evening meeting in the Twin Falls Child Development Center.

It was the second meeting of the newly formed group which has set as its objective the procurement of sheltered workshops, and boarding schools in which the handicapped may live while working.

Charles Coulson, Escatello, president of the Idaho Association for Retarded Children, told what the state association can do to help local groups and spoke on legislative matters and grants on which the state association is working.

Dr. David Alkins, northwest regional representative of the National Association for Retarded Children, spoke on the functions of the regional office which includes six of the northwestern states. He stressed the fact there is only one association for retarded children and that the national, state and local units are all combined in their efforts to assist the handicapped. The national association helps in three ways through registration, public education and direct services to the local units.

Most people are unaware of mental retardation and do not understand the needs and problems of the mentally retarded, stated Dr. Alkins, who added that the public must be educated to realize how much the mentally retarded can do if properly trained for employment.

He told of the tremendous benefits for mentally retarded individuals which the last 20 years have brought, new bills which will be brought before the Congress, how money is allocated, prevention and research into mental retardation, and told of on the job training projects which many states are adopting.

A question and answer period brought many questions from the crowd in attendance. Chet Bartlett, director of the activity center, presided at the meeting.

Cassia county receives flag

BURLEY — A plaque that and picture honoring the U.S.S. Cassia County have been presented to the Board of Cassia County Commissioners. The presentation was made Monday by John Struchen and Ed Struchen from Burley. The flag will be displayed on the wall of the commissioners' meeting room, while the picture will be placed in the boardroom.

The engraved plaque, which tells of the World War II service of the Cassia County, which bore the number and designation LST 527. The flag was the last ensign to be flown over the ship, and U.S. Navy officials said it was being sent to Burley for display and safekeeping until such time as the ship may be re-commissioned.

Re-districting recommended

BURLEY — The Burley Chamber of Commerce has recommended re-districting of commissioner districts in Cassia County.

Jim Roper was appointed at the Monday chamber meeting to discuss the matter with commissioners. William MacKnight, told chamber members at the weekly luncheon meeting that commissioner district No. 1 has a population of 4,500 persons each. According to law, each of the commissioners' districts should represent an equal number of persons, he said. Ernest Blauer, Mayfair area manager for the American Red Cross, said the United States produces only one-third of the sugar used in the country. The other two-thirds must be imported. There are about 18,000 tons of sugar beets stored at the Pan ama sugar factory, he said. Sugar beets are being shipped to the factory by railroad cars. The beets stored in piles are frozen to a depth of 12 feet from the top and 15 feet inward from the outside. This is the first time Blauer has ever seen beets freeze this deep in the piles.

He said 50,000 acres of sugar beets were planted in the two counties last year and the electronic thinner has been used in the United States the past three years. It is invented in Germany and does a better job of thinning than human laborers. The machine will thin about 20 acres per day, he said, but the field must be free of weeds and rocks for it to work properly. Jay Schofield, chamber president, said the Red Cross blood drive will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Burley High School, with a quota of 100 pints.

Minico seniors won't get last week off as in past

RUPERT — Seniors at Minico High School will have the unenviable position of setting a new tradition this year — they will have to go to school as long as everybody else.

Trustees of the Minidoka County School District heard Monday night that the Idaho Department of Education has eliminated the tradition that high school seniors be allowed the last week to 10 days of the school year as free time, while final exams are graded and their grades are tabulated for graduation.

School Supt. Darrell J. Hatfield said the district has traditionally given the students the last week off, while counting them present on classroom rolls. The daily "head count" is essential to determine funding under the state "ADA" or average daily attendance formula.

If the district were to release the seniors early and mark them absent for a week, it would cost us $4,000 at least in ADA funds," Dr. Hatfield said. In addition, the absences could count heavily against seniors with other absences on their record.

Under the new state policy, graduation ceremonies will have to be scheduled on the last day of school. The traditional baccalaureate services will probably be eliminated this year, since the religious aspect of baccalaureate has become steadily less important.

Trustees recalled that seniors were told last May that the 1971 baccalaureate services would be the "last ever."

High School Principal Glen Maughan has asked the trustees to decide on graduation details, so programs can be prepared. Dr. Hatfield said the board agreed to consider the problem further.

Trustees considered two hardship pleas from rural residents seeking to have their children admitted to drivers' education classes so the youngsters could qualify for drivers' licenses and could help their parents by driving for them.

One of the two men making the plea said his youngest son has been failing steadily and he is unable to get to town without a driver. The other petitioner, a widower, said he depends heavily on his two young daughters to drive for him.

Assistant Supt. Doyle Lowder explained that under the state-imposed quota system for admitting students to driver's training classes, older students, 16 and older, would be given entry first, followed by younger students until the 60-percent limit is reached.

The hardship cases would be allowed if the district were to absorb the cost, averaging $35 per student, or if other qualifying students were denied the training, Lowder said.

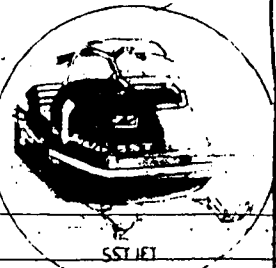

The trustees voted to allow the parents to pay the cost of $35 per student for the training. Then, if the state legislature allocates funds of driver education, the district would reimburse the parents. If the deficit has been reduced by the end of the fiscal year, Moore said, then a business manager could be considered.

3rd annual Basque dance draws crowd at Burley

By GEORGIA LAYTON

Times-News writer

BURLEY — The third annual Basque dance, sponsored by St. Nicholas Parish, Rupert, was held this past week at the Ponderosa Inn.

Purpose of the annual event is to provide a meeting place where Basques can visit, dance and exchange news from their native land in the Pyrenees mountains in the Spanish provinces bordering France and the Bay of Biscay.

There are currently some 100 young Basque men, in Idaho, under contract by the Western Range Association. The annual dance is the only time many of them have opportunity to exchange news from home.

Persons attended the event from Salt Lake City, Boise, Gooding, Buhl, Twin Falls and the Mini-Cassia area.

The native Basque dances call for much fast floor work with both hands high above the head and snapping of fingers. A woman in Basque costume, young marrieds, parents and grandparents all danced together and appeared to be having a great time.

Many Basques live in the Boise valley, constituting the largest Basque colony in the United States.

Making arrangements for the Basque dance were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Urquien and Mrs. Gladys Abadia, all Paul, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Echeverry, Rupert.

Mr. and Mrs. Echeverry announced arrangements already are under way to hold another dance in 1973.

Obscene ruling aired

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Judges of the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Tuesday they would not rule on what is obscene. They ordered juries in their six-state jurisdiction to make such decisions "as much as possible on objective facts."

"We cannot determine what the people of a state or the nation consider as their limit of candor and their capacity for trash," said Judge Homer Thornberry in the court's opinion. "We find ourselves completely incapable of ruling on this issue."

The decision came in the case of Dallas book dealer William Groner, who had been convicted of transporting obscene books across state lines. The appeals court granted Groner a new trial.

The judges said even the Supreme Court decisions on obscenity for the past 15 years are not uniform.

"No expert testimony or other evidence was presented to show that the books were themed to appeal predominantly to the prurient interests of its readers, went substantially beyond the community limits of candor in their description of sex and nudity, or were devoid of all redeeming social value," Thornberry's opinion said.

"Without some guidance, from experts or otherwise, we find ourselves unable to apply the constitutional standard with anything more definite or objective than our own personal standards of prudence and decency, standards which should not and cannot serve as a basis for either denying or granting first amendment protection to this or any other literature."

Judge Charles Clark concurred with Thornberry "reluctantly," and said the courts should quit trying to set a national standard for obscenity.

He said the matter should be left up to individual states. "If such a standard exists at all, we would expect that it would be in a constant evolutionary and even revolutionary flux."

Release asked

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Angela Davis, who last week was hospitalized for tests after complaining of poor health, arrives here from her Palo Alto jail today to ask for release on bail.

Miss Davis' appeal will be argued at 10 a.m. before U. S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert by law Professor Anthony Amsterdam of the University of Pennsylvania.

The bail issue was turned down by California courts and Miss Davis' defense attorneys, supported by the American Civil Liberties Union, petitioned the federal court on her behalf.

It was one of the last motions to be disposed of before her scheduled Jan. 31 trial on charges of murder, kidnap and conspiracy.

Amsterdam, currently teaching at Stanford, recently argued for the abolition of capital punishment before the California Supreme Court and plans to present similar arguments before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Attorneys for Miss Davis, a former UCLA philosophy instructor, Monday requested a second change of location in her trial site before presiding Judge Richard E. Aronson.

Doctors fee less

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Doctors treating Medicare patients after July 1 will be reimbursed by about $38 million less than would have been the case if President Nixon's price controls had not been in effect.

Doctors who treat the nation's 19.6 million Medicare patients are paid from a fund to which both the patients and the government contribute $5.60 a month. That payment will rise to $5.80 a month July 1.

The fees which the government allows doctors to collect for treating Medicare patients are based on community standards and during 1971 those fees rose by 6.2 per cent.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JANUARY 13, 1972

horoscope
from the Carroll Richter Forecast

GENERAL TENDENCIES An unusual day for social, romantic, business, financial, or traveling matters. Think out a plan of action that can bring you pretty much what you want in the days ahead. Your judgment should be clear and you can get the goodwill and cooperation you desire.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to plan some trip or to make changes not possible before. People with background different from yours can give you data you need. Go after it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have an almost uncanny way of getting others to go ahead with some good plan you have in mind. Consider how to gain backing. Make it worthwhile for the other individual, too.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go to own allies for the data you need just at this time and get right information. Ask them straight, not instead of hedging. Then carry through with their suggestions and add to success.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have much work to do that will be profitable, so get an early start instead of procrastinating. Plan some time for health improvement, also. Don't delay on any dentistry you need done.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day for social and recreational activities that really appeal to you. Buy some nice gift for your mate which will make both of you happy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can improve conditions at home considerably so more comfort and harmony reign there. Don't forget to buy whatever is really necessary. You may have some unexpected but welcome windfall today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have some excellent ideas that you can start putting in operation right now so your life will improve. Talk over joint ventures with allies and come to a satisfactory understanding. Don't waste time arguing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show appreciation for the fine ideas that associates and others come up with now, especially experts in business. Follow through with the best. Save some time for personal friends who are anxious to see you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have some private plans that require immediate action now, although you cannot see how successful they may be. Making new contacts is fine. Have fun with good friends in the p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An adviser will now give pieces of data that are fascinating. Be sure to keep them in confidence. You have a fine intuitive sense, so use it to your benefit. Don't permit others to impose on you in any way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Contacting good friends you want to be a part of your life in the future is wise. You can adapt to your social position now. Use those excellent friends you possess.

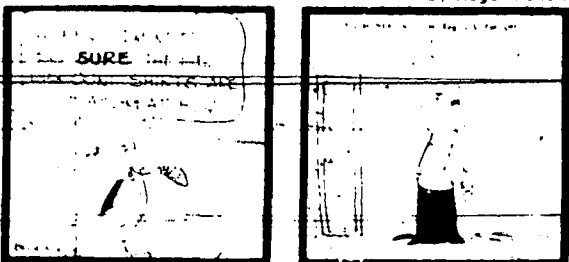

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contacting influential people you want to be a part of will bring fine benefits. State your finest ambitions. You can get those new plans working as soon as you study them more. Show more attention to mate in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those young people whose mind will roam the universe and beyond into space, so be sure to give the finest educational advantages you can afford and stress foreign languages as well. The judgment here will be particularly favorable, so be sure that the religious training necessary is also given early in order to maintain such a fine mind. There can and very likely will be fame in this child, especially in pioneering professions.

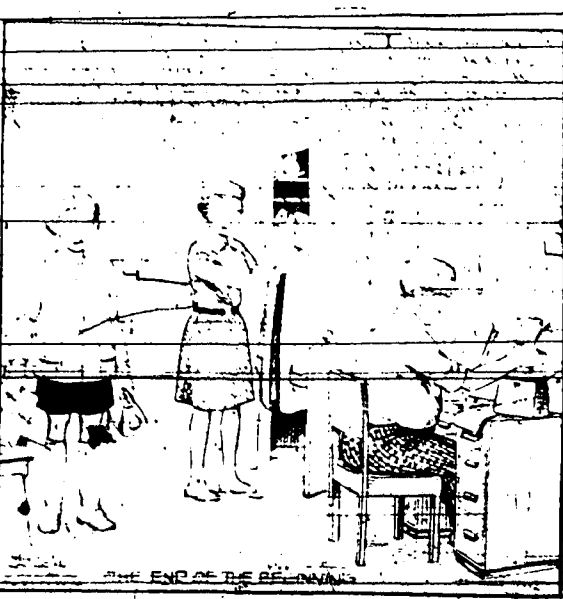

The Stars appear they do not conspire. What you make of your life is largely up to you.

IN MATTERS of romance, what excites a man is what he sees, a woman what she hears. Oh, you don't buy that? All right, how do you account for the fact there is no "Playgirl" magazine with a centerfold of Omar Sharif? Yet, it's the ladies, not the men, who've made millionaires out of such recording stars as Elvis Presley, The Beatles, Tom Jones. Further, among women, it's the silent beauty who's apt to be the most devastating to members of the opposite sex. But among men, it's the clever talker.

A BILL COLLECTOR of long experience contends that debt must not be paid last is the doctor bill.

IF YOU TIP the scales at 150 pounds, young fellow, you weigh just about as much as the grub an elephant eats everyday.

THAT MONTH wherein the largest number of fishermen drown is May. It's the cold cold water.

QUERIES

A: "It's legal to hunt deer from an airplane or a helicopter, isn't it?"

A: Not anymore. Congress outlawed that recently.

Q: "WHAT proportion of the new movies actually make money?"

A: Just about three out of 10 now.

Q: "WHAT'S wisdom hair?"

A: That's tufts that grow out of some people's ears after they pass, say, age 30.

NO PROSPECTIVE coed in search of a gentleman friend should overlook the fact that there are two men for every girl at Stanford University. Do not believe they're actually divided up that equitably, however.

NO. 1 on that list of faults of which men accuse their wives is "nagging." No. 1 on that list of faults of which women accuse their husbands is "lack of consideration."

ARE YOU OLD enough to remember any of those subtitles on the silent comedy films of yesteryear? I've found two, offhand. One, to label the antics of a flirtatious dandy. Just a Wolf in Cheap Clothing. And the other, to introduce a slinky blonde. "Like a Revolving Door. She Went Around with Anybody. Certain camp quality there. Hard to pen down."

TO CHECK out the calories in the liquor you drink, if any, look at the label on the bottle. If it's 80 proof, that's 80 calories per ounce. If it's 100 proof, that's 100 calories.

THAT DANGEROUS ailment known as high blood pressure is three times more prevalent among blacks than whites, the science boys now report.

Dog training slated by FAA

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A team of specially trained dogs would be used to check luggage in the airport or on a ship, officials say.

But in the event of a bomb scare, the dogs could be brought into the passenger compartment of the airplane to check for explosives.

According to an FAA spokesman, the dogs will be trained at the Capitol Hill School of the Washington Metropolitan Police Department.

When the dogs are trained, they will be used to check luggage in the airport or on a ship, officials say.

At the end of a two-week training period, the dogs will be sent to the airport or on a ship to check luggage.
